Discover a world apart in an area once roamed by highwaymen. Part of the Black Harry Trails.

Access For All Route:
1. Head up the track next to the playing fields.
2. Continue up the dale to where, after a short climb, it opens out with seating.

In the early 18th century, travellers crossing the lonely moors were attacked and robbed by a highwayman who took the name of Black Harry.

The first blossom of the year can be seen in the blackthorn which lines the route.

The limestone is rich in fossils deposited 330 million years ago in shallow, tropical seas when the Peak District was close to the Equator.
